Dear Mr BURMAN

Section 7, Data Protection Act, 1998 - Subject Access

In reply to your request for information that may be held about you on the Police National Computer.

The Data Protection Act places an obligation on the Police when holding personal information on computer to provide a copy of that information (unless an exemption applies) to the individual concerned on request.

From the personal details supplied in your request there is no information held about you on the Police National Computer.

If you requested any information in addition to what is held on the Police National Computer, the Originating Police Force as above will send you a separate reply.

Yours faithfully,

For the Criminal Records Manager
ACPO Criminal Records Office (ACRO)

[NB: The exemptions in relation to disclosure of information held on Police computers are limited to where data are held for:- (a) the prevention or detection of crime, (b) the apprehension or prosecution of offenders, and disclosing such data would be likely to prejudice those purposes.]
